POLITICAL SCIENCE (POLS)

POLS 100 | POWER AND JUSTICE
Units: 3-4 Repeatability: No
Core Attributes: First year Integration, Social/Behavioral Inquiry area
This course focuses on theories of political organization, action, and analysis. Readings emphasize primary sources of political thought—from Ancient Greece to modern America—to investigate fundamental problems of political life. How should power be distributed and what ends should it serve? How do diverse political communities define and seek justice? How do they balance other fundamental values, such as liberty and equality? How can these questions help us understand who wins, who loses, and why it matters? These questions and more will guide our investigation of the relationship between power and justice in theory and practice.

POLS 120 | INTRODUCTION TO AMERICAN POLITICS
Units: 3
Core Attributes: First year Integration, Social/Behavioral Inquiry area
This course offers students a fundamental overview of American politics by analyzing the origin, development, structure, and operation of all levels of the American political system. POLS 304 | AMERICAN POLITICAL THOUGHT
Units: 3 Repeatability: No
Through self-conscious interaction with the history of political thought, concern for practical solutions, and attentiveness to particularities of their own circumstances, Americans have crafted a tradition of political thought distinct in both form and content from that of their European forebears. This course explores the varieties of political thought in the United States, highlighting the diversity of perspectives on political life and institutional design throughout American history.
POLS 305 | BLACK POLITICAL THOUGHT
Units: 3  Repeatability: No
Core Attributes: Domestic Diversity level 2
The course traces and examines how black political thinkers and activists have responded to central political questions in the United States and their relationship to the broader African Diaspora. We will explore major ideological trends and political philosophies, as they have been interpreted and applied by black thinkers. Key themes include the relationship between racial identity and questions of liberation, faith, and national belonging.

POLS 306 | CONSERVATIVE POLITICAL THOUGHT
Units: 3  Repeatability: No
Through the careful critical study of some of the most thoughtful and influential works of conservative political thought over the past two centuries, this class will explore the idea of conservatism and the varieties of conservative thought. The texts have been chosen primarily for the high quality of their writing and argument, rather than for any particular relevance to the most familiar manifestations of conservative ideology. Our goal in this class will be to take conservatism seriously as an idea—rather than merely an ideology—and expand our conceptions of what conservatism can mean far beyond the reductive picture we get in contemporary politics.

POLS 307 | FEMINIST POLITICAL THEORIES
Units: 3  Repeatability: No
Core Attributes: Domestic Diversity level 2
In this course we will explore foundational texts and concepts alongside issues with which feminist theorists around the world have been grappling, both historically and in the present. As you will discover, there is no unitary feminist theory. There is overlap, but there are also marked differences among the approaches that feminists have taken in their pursuit of social change, and with the goal of establishing a more just social order. As we work through the course, we will explore the strengths and limitations of the approaches we encounter, looking at their emergence and implications and exploring how they help us understand and confront our own gendered existence. Above all, we will examine the intersectional workings of power and their impact on political subjectivity, belonging, becoming, and activism in one’s communities.

POLS 308 | POLITICS AND LITERATURE
Units: 3
This course explores the political content of selected classical, modern, and contemporary literature. Emphasis is placed on concepts such as authority, power, freedom, equality, organization, obligation, and the ways these concepts have been treated by different authors.

POLS 309D | SEX, POWER, AND POLITICS
Units: 3
Core Attributes: Diversity-Pre F17 CORE

POL 342 | PUBLIC POLICY
Units: 3-4
This course examines the political and administrative processes through which public policy is formulated, adopted, implemented, and evaluated.

POL 348 | INDIGENOUS PEOPLES AND THE ENVIRONMENT
Units: 3
Core Attributes: Global Diversity level 2
From environmental injustices in California, to the construction of mega-dams in the Amazon, to debates over fishing rights in New Zealand, struggles between indigenous groups and forces of development and globalization are on the rise. At the same time, stereotyped popular perceptions about the relationship between native peoples and the environment often further these inequalities. Although a global system of indigenous rights has been created in recent decades, its impact has been limited, and serious concerns about its long-term potential remain. Through case studies, an interactive negotiation simulation, and in-class research presentations, we will explore the interplay between indigenous peoples, natural resources, and human rights through a variety of disciplinary lenses.

POL 349 | POLITICS AND THE ENVIRONMENT
Units: 3-4
This course examines the decision-making processes through which modern societies attempt to cope with environmental and natural resource problems. Students investigate both American and international environmental issues, and consider the historical and theoretical bases of current environmental policies and initiatives.

POL 350 | THEORIES OF COMPARATIVE POLITICS
Units: 3-4
This course examines the major theoretical approaches to comparative politics as well as the political histories of individual countries. It is designed to introduce students to a variety of themes central to this field, including state-society relations, state capacity, the role of institutions, nationalism, cultural/ethnic pluralism, political culture, and democracy.
